How to make a stamp

Stampcreator® will enable you to impose images onto rubber stamp surfaces. After you create the image on your computer and insert the text, the rest of the process will take just a few minutes. Ink never touches your fingers...this dry process is absolutely clean.

1. Start the Stamp Editor program on your PC and then create any image you wish.

2. The Stampcreator® PRO System will instantly transfer the image you have prepared on your computer screen onto a transparent film, which will be loaded automatically from the magazine tray inside. 600 dpi thermal transfer printing will reproduce every detail from your graphics. Open the window and you will see the film (positive master) for your stamp positioned above the Xenon Flash Assembly.

3. Position a blank stamp in the stamp creation bay above the Xenon flash assembly.

4. When the door to the stamp creation bay is shut, the Xenon flash is automatically triggered.

5. The surface of the stamp is made of a light sensitive rubber material specially developed for the Brother Stampcreator® PRO System. Light from the Xenon flash causes millions of micro-pores in the stamp surface to close. Only pores protected by the black printing on the positive master film will remain open.

6. Attaching the stamp handle causes the ink pack embedded in the stamper base to open. Keep the stamp upright for a few minutes for all the ink to absorb. After a brief "Cure Time," the ink is absorbed by the stamp material and will be ready to use. An ID label can be printed in the same way by the Stampcreator® PRO System.

Laser sharp image

The rubber surface has millions of micro-pores that permit just the right amount of ink to come through. This makes it possible to put very precise graphics on the stamp.

Error-free ID Label

You can print a label and proof read it before the final stamp is made. Then the entire stamp message can be clearly displayed on the top for positive identification.

Virtually smudge-proof

The specially developed ink dries in seconds on regular or coated paper

No messy ink pads

The ink pack is built into the stamper base and attaching the handle causes it to open. It's absolutely safe and clean, non-toxic and non-flammable.

Long lasting

The long lasting ink tank is not directly exposed to air. Tiny micro paths protect it so it won't dry up like conventional stamps... even if you leave the bottom cap off.
